Celebration of life

Introduction

Welcome to Kings Weston House

Kings Weston House stands on the last hill before Bristol meets the sea, with panoramic views across the Bristol Channel to South Wales. This Grade 1 listed Palladian mansion is the only house in Bristol designed by Sir John Vanbrugh, the architect behind Blenheim Palace and Castle Howard.

Kings Weston is more than a building – it's 300 acres of parkland to unwind, explore and enjoy, right here in Bristol.

For centuries, the hill and its landscape were celebrated by Georgian visitors, and even feature in the setting of Jane Austen's Northanger Abbey.

Today, the estate remains a peaceful retreat and a welcome break from city life. The grounds offer open lawns, sweeping views, and a "small arboretum" of tree species that attract a wealth of wildlife. You might spot deer, foxes, and plenty of birdlife, or just enjoy a quiet stroll under the trees.

House and Gardens

When you hire the exclusive use of the ground floor for your event, you have use of the two manicured lawns & secret garden.

Within our lease were unable to block off pathways to really make this private use for you but, there are ways around this. We place signage up to show that we have a private event on, and its great in the summer to have garden games on the lawn and a few bistro tables with chairs to show that we have a large event taking place within the house.

Our customers and dog walkers are very considerate and they'll always walk the long way and will not try to be part of your event.

If you want full secuirty on the lawns, we will look into ways we can make this happen for you
